Heidi Strigenz is a trial attorney advocating for individuals, families, businesses, and non-profit organizations in a variety of litigation matters, such as insurance defense, personal injury, and professional negligence.

She also assists in the firm's estate planning and government and regulatory practice areas. Because Heidi understands how challenging navigating the legal system can be, she strives to be a guide for her clients through what can be a difficult time in their lives. Heidi prioritizes effective communication, empathy, and transparency with her clients throughout the litigation process, and she prides herself on building trusting relationships with clients.

Heidi earned her Juris Doctor, magna cum laude, from Creighton University School of Law in 2024. She also graduated with a Master of Science in Government Organization and Leadership through Creighton's dual-degree GOAL program. Through this program, she completed a semester-long full-time internship for the United States Department of Justice, working in the litigating section of the Civil Rights Division. This experience makes her uniquely qualified on both civil rights litigation and governmental legal affairs. Heidi graduated from Creighton University, summa cum laude, with a Political Science degree in 2021.

Outside of the office, Heidi enjoys golfing, cooking, traveling, spending time with family and friends, and playing with her chocolate lab, Coco.
